

HOW TO WRITE AN ERASMUS PROJECT? ERASMUS 35 year YOUNG!

Theme of the webinar

During their professional education and postgraduate studies and their working life, many health care professionals (but also other professionals) nowadays plan some time abroad encouraged by their faculty management to broaden their personal and professional expertise. Others plan multi-centered cooperation/research activities, which include the home university as well as selected partners. International coordinators are the ones to support these activities and should therefore be up-to-date and familiar with the Erasmus+ to facilitate all of the before-mentioned activities.

Within the European Union, the Erasmus+ project was established 35 years ago to increase student and staff exchanges. The costs of these activities are EU funded and can be reimbursed to participants, if they apply for it through their international office.

Eventually different persons shy away from applying because of bureaucratic demands or other shortcomings, such as language proficiencies. The EU encourages all applicants, and especially those with a not so well-financed background or other social hindrances to apply for funding.

Health care professionals can benefit in learning new and different points of view related to one's own study topic. Coming back, they will be able to proffer new insights and also in the long-term, society can benefit from an intereuropean/worldwide exchange, which is one of the goals of Erasmus.

They will profit in building/deepening personal capabilities (e.g. social, language, research, cooperation) and professional expertise and how to represent one's own profession. They will also broaden their inter-cultural competencies and become global citizens.

Main objectives of the webinar:

- To enhance the familiarity with prerequisites to plan Erasmus funded activities
- To learn about different steps to be undertaken in reasonable time slots with home university and partner university for student/staff exchange or shared research/cooperation.
- To help international coordinators in doing the specific task of facilitating staff/student exchange
- To be given tips on how to write a successful proposal for application meeting the pre-fixed deadlines

- To enhance familiarity with templates/documents demanded by the European Commission and the participating agencies NAs and the EACEA
- To learn about personal skills to be possibly improved by using Erasmus and how these will be possibly implemented into a.o. health care professions and society, as well as in other professions, linked to the COHEHRE wide range of members and partners.

Programme

The webinar “How to write an Erasmus project” will be held twice in November and in December and consists of 2 parts.

1.Session

Webinar: Tuesday 15th of November 2022, 15:30-16:30 CET

2.Session

Webinar: Wednesday 7th December 2022, 15:30-16:30 CET

The webinar will be preceded by a consultancy round: questions concerning “How to write an Erasmus project” will be addressed to Margit.Eidenberger@fhgooe.ac.at and this between 25th and 30th November.

Target Group

Lecturers who are interested to go abroad in the new Erasmus period or who are interested to work in cooperation with other universities (from program and partner countries).

International coordinators who are going to facilitate staff and student exchanges.

Keywords

New Erasmus, student/staff exchange, shared cooperation/research activities, inter-university/inter-European/worldwide links

Registration

Free participation.

Register here